Former FBI Supervisory Special Agent Joins MDX as General Counsel

MIAMI, FLORIDA, JUNE 1, 2015 – MDX announced today the appointment of Carlos M. Zaldivar as their new in-house General Counsel. A former Supervisory Special Agent and General Counsel for the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), Mr. Zaldivar brings over 20 years of experience in crisis management, compliance reporting, and public policy advocacy and has served as a legal advisor and trial lawyer for government and civic operations at a national scale.

Prior to joining MDX's legal department, Mr. Zaldivar directed legal operations for FBI project divisions based in Miami and San Juan, Puerto Rico. His responsibilities included, but were not limited to, providing legal counsel to agency supervisors and executive management involved in the coordination of ten distinctive FBI command post operations.

During his career with the FBI, Carlos Zaldivar received an FBI Director's Award for drafting three expedite wire intercept affidavits, which supported the successful recovery of a child who had been kidnapped. He has also been praised for his involvement in the development and supervision of several complex investigations into criminal enterprises.

"Carlos brings a very high level of legal and ethics expertise, which will surely serve an asset in helping our board maintain the high standards of accountability and transparency that Miami-Dade County residents deserve," said Javier Rodriguez, MDX Executive Director. "We are very fortunate to have him as part of our team."

Following his term with the FBI, Mr. Zaldivar entered private practice as a trial attorney, and has appeared in local, state, and federal courts within several jurisdictions. Most recently, he served as General Counsel for a Miami-based international manufacturing firm with operations in China, Central and South America.

Mr. Zaldivar holds licenses to practice Law in Florida, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. He graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree from Villanova University, and earned his Juris Doctor (J.D) degree with a Tax Honors Certificate at Rutgers University.
